Department of Botany, Hansraj College organized a seminar on Entrepreneurial opportunities in Botany. The idea behind to organize this seminar was to bring experts from industry at the college platform to motivate and aware the students for entrepreneur opportunities in the field of Botany. For this, we had talk of one speaker from a company Lambent lab, Noida.

NAAC ACCREDITED 'A++' GRADE COLLEGE

The programme started sharp at 12 p.m. where Dr. Arti Mishra from department of Botany gave a brief introduction of topic and invited Prof. Vijay Rani Rajpal for welcoming lines and also to welcome the guest Ms. Archana Prasad, Founder, lambent lab. Dr. Mishra then invited Prof. Monika Koul to motivate the students. Prof. Koul enlightened all the attendees and also told us the importance of this seminar.

Ms. Archana Prasad started the seminar with her journey from a student to an entrepreneur. She highlighted use of Botany in cosmetics. She discussed about the formulating green hair and skin care products and also their key ingredients and their chemical constituents. Furthermore, she talked about the advantages of herbal cosmetics and over synthetic and how natural products are safe and effective to use as well as suitable for all skin types with no side effects. She particularly discusses about some products such as olive oil, lemon oil, aloe vera gel, coconut oil, rosehip oil and sandalwood oil. Natural surfactant and natural emulsifier have also been discussed by her among students. The session was very informative and interactive. She also discussed; Cosmos approved raw materials in detailed. Students were very enthusiastic to see pictures and analytical lab facility developed by her.

This seminar was very helpful and informative for all the students specially who are doing bachelors in botany. Students learn a lot and also showed their willingness to join her company for short projects. Ms. Archana told to share the details of resource persons from other related companies in which she had already worked. Finally, at around 1 p.m. Dr. Archana Singh from Botany department ended the session with a vote of thanks.
