Hansraj College, University of Delhi, has started a novel initiative to enhance learning skills and widen the horizons for knowledge enhancement. The project aims to bring together people who are interested in knowing what is happening in various fields or what happened phenomenal in the past that changed the perspective. Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Natural Sciences, Biological Sciences, Soft Skills on one single platform. Faculty, retired employees, civil servants, academia, public servants, research scholars all are invited to be a part of this forum. People who wish to join this initiative have to pick any peer reviewed publication from any subject that they feel. The paper/article should have impacted their thinking skills and helped them grow in their fields, helped them dig deeper into the subject. All are welcome to present the paper to a wider audience. A committee would prepare the time-table and participants would be informed to present through various ICT platforms. The idea is to enhance the knowledge and gain more insights of any topic. People can also pick their own publications and discuss in depth about the rationale, methodology and inferences.

The participation would be Voluntary and self-motivation is the driving factor for this project. However, Hansraj College will be pleased to give a letter of appreciation if participants want.
