Hansraj College Unites in Mass “Vande Mataram” Singing for 150th Anniversary

New Delhi, India – Today, November 7, 2025, the NSS Unit of Hansraj College, University of Delhi, successfully hosted a historic Mass Singing of “Vande Mataram” to mark the 150th anniversary of India's immortal national song.

The event, held at 9:50 AM in the Padma Bhushan Gyan Chopra Seminar Room, saw an overwhelming turnout of students, faculty, and Non-Teaching Staff who came together in a powerful display of unity and patriotism.

The Principal of the college, Prof. (Dr.) Rama, addressed the students. In her inspiring address, she said— "Vande Mataram is the voice of the nation's soul. It is not merely a song, but a national consciousness that gave us liberation from bondage and the inspiration for self-rule. This song is India's identity and pride."

The walls of Hansraj College echoed with the soul-stirring rendition of Vande Mataram, first penned in 1875 by Bankim Chandra Chattopadhyay in Anandamath. What began as a literary masterpiece transformed into the heartbeat of India's independence movement — and today, it roared back to life through the collective voice of the Hansraj family.

“Let the walls of Hansraj echo with unshakable love for Bharat Mata! This is not just an event it's a vow of devotion.”

— Team NSS, Hansraj College

The seminar room brimmed with energy as participants stood shoulder-to-shoulder, their voices rising in perfect harmony. The atmosphere was electric — a living testament to the enduring spirit of Vande Mataram and its call to every Indian heart.
