Description: The Red Brick Talks: A Platform for Student Expression

Vision – The Media and Publications Society of Hansraj College introduced "The Red Brick Talks" in April 2025, a dynamic interview series that brought student perspectives to the forefront of campus conversation.

The series featured candid discussions with Hansraj students on issues that matter most to them—from trending national controversies to everyday campus challenges. Whether addressing infrastructure concerns, academic pressures, or social debates, the initiative created an unfiltered space for students to share their experiences and opinions.

What set "The Red Brick Talks" apart was its grassroots approach. Rather than top-down commentary, the series prioritized authentic student voices, reflecting the diverse viewpoints that make up the Hansraj community. By turning the microphone toward fellow students, Vision transformed passive observation into active participation.

The impact extended beyond individual interviews. As students saw their peers articulating shared concerns, it sparked broader awareness and solidarity around campus issues. Problems that once felt isolated became recognized as collective experiences deserving attention and action.

Through this initiative, Vision demonstrated that effective campus journalism isn't just about covering events—it's about creating channels for expression where none existed before. "The Red Brick Talks" reinforced the society's evolving identity as a platform that doesn't just report on campus life, but actively shapes the conversations that define it.
