

2018 - 2019

Name of the Department/Society: English Society

Name of the Event 4: Student Paper Presentation: Call of the Wild-Reading the Beast in the Book

Date of the Event: April 16, 2019

An event which enabled students across colleges to make paper presentations was organised on April 16, 2019. The subject of the paper presentation was the representation of the wild in literature. The paper presentation exercise sought to examine how literature engaged with, represented/defined the non-human world. The exercise included an enquiry into literature's imagination of the beast to open up broad areas of investigation into man's relation with the non-human/natural world. Both undergrad and postgrad students of the English Department across colleges affiliated to Delhi University participated in the event.
