Event Description (About 250 Words)

Haritima, the Environmental Awareness Society, and Srishti Chetna, the Zoological Society of Hansraj College, hosted an online photography competition "Threads of the Wild," held under the banner of Wildlife Fiesta. Built around its theme, the event invited students to capture the many ways life, wild and urban, is woven together.

The competition aimed to build a deeper connection with the natural world and to show that wildlife is not found only in forests and reserves. Participants found stories in a tiger sleeping in a quiet stream, a stray kitten beneath a parked car, a dog who stays while we walk by, and ants crossing a wall of colour. The challenge was to turn an ordinary moment into a statement about coexistence, vulnerability and resilience.

Being an online event, the competition gave participants the freedom to shoot and submit their best frames by the deadline of 8th October. We received entries from 28 participants, remarkably varied in subject, style and perspective.

The outcome was truly encouraging. The event gave photographers a creative platform, drew attention to species we often overlook, and reminded everyone that conservation begins with simply noticing.Exceptional entries that best captured the essence of "Threads of the Wild" were recognised, with exciting prizes awarded to the winners.
