The 'Case competitions and their right approach' session, organized under the flagship of the INTERNATIONAL FINANCE STUDENT ASSOCIATION (IFSA-HANSRAJ) , was an in-house skill development session on cracking case competitions, for the newly recruited Junior Analysts of Batch of 2024.

The session aimed to equip the participants with the know-how of the prevalent culture of case competitions in the undergrad circuit, their importance in improving our analytical and problem-solving skills, and an extensive guide to brace themselves for the competitions.

Encouraged by an enthusiastic participation of 35+ attendees across all the courses of our college, we aimed to present a detailed walkthrough of analysing a problem statement, the right approach to curate your solutions, and the importance of presentation skills in a case competition.

Our team prepared an extensive guide comprising of three-winning presentations by the INTERNATIONAL FINANCE STUDENT ASSOCIATION (IFSA-HANSRAJ) in national case competitions. This initiative not only provided better insights to the attendees to grab onto details but also an opportunity for live learning.

Case-Consilium: A policy case competition brief up to the attendees.

Zenith and CCL: Case-competition brief up to the attendees.

We also provided constructive feedback to the attendees for their previously submitted sample presentations. This step aimed to help them to polish and improve their analytic and presentation abilities in all future opportunities.
