Event Description

On April 17, 2025, a group of enthusiastic 11th-grade students from the Air Force Golden Jubilee Institute visited the Incubation Centre at Hansraj College. The visit was organized to give students an early exposure to the world of entrepreneurship and innovation. The students were warmly welcomed by the team members of The Entrepreneurial Cell, Hansraj College.

The session began with an interactive discussion where the team explained the concepts of entrepreneurship, startups, and the functioning of an incubation centre. The students were also introduced to the various events and initiatives regularly conducted by The Entrepreneurial Cell, such as startup competitions, mentorship programs, speaker sessions, and networking meets.

The visiting students were inspired to learn that several successful startups had originated from the Incubation Centre and E-Cell at Hansraj College. Some of the current E-Cell members who are Startup founders also shared their personal entrepreneurial journeys, giving students a glimpse of real-world startup experiences.

The session became highly engaging as students eagerly asked questions about starting a startup, getting initial funding, and how to kickstart their entrepreneurial journey at a young age. They also inquired about academic concerns such as the CUET examination and its role in their career path.
